

GETTING AROUND USING THE INTERNET

CFS “Cameo”

Tom Ryan

May 1, 2008

Our Travel Plans for Today

- ▣ Today we'll take quick survey of Internet sites that help you get around town, the state or the country.
- ▣ We'll point you to some key sites, there are more for you to explore
- ▣ For today's demo, we'll plan a trip from Hyannis to Fenway Park (You have to get the tickets on your own!)

Links We Like

- ▣ We're going to quickly visit 3 or 4 sites, given our time constraints. Here are the links:
- ▣ Google Maps: <http://maps.google.com>
We'll spend more time here to explore some unique features.
- ▣ We'll get directions and explore the "street view" option

Links We Like (Cont'd)

Some other options:

- ▣ Yahoo Maps (<http://maps.yahoo.com>)
Slick interface, well done, not quite as sophisticated as Google.
- ▣ AAA (<http://aaa.com>)
If you like AAA “TripTiks”, you can print it online. Membership not required. (Click Travel, then ‘Maps and Directions’)
- ▣ MapQuest (<http://mapquest.com>)
And “old favorite: but not as easy as the others with distracting ads.

Wrap-up

- ▣ One caution: These sites are generally reliable but are computer generated. You may see some discrepancies in the “real world” (street number changes, construction delays, etc.)
- ▣ Whether it's Fenway Park, NYC, San Francisco or elsewhere, enjoy your trip!
- ▣ We'll post this presentation in the “CFS Presents: area on our website.
(<http://cfscapecod.com>)